Mayor Jim Reardon has announced that the boil water order issued by the Dutchess County Department of Health has been lifted.

Reardon states, "Due to the results of tested water samples there is no longer a need for the users of the Rhinebeck Village water system to boil their water before consumption. We have restored the integrity of the system and operations are now back to normal.

I would like to take the opportunity to thank the community for their patience and cooperation during this most difficult time. Also I cannot say enough, how grateful I am to all the employees of the Rhinebeck Water Department, Highway Department and the Village Hall staff for their effort over the last week. Their hard work and dedication pulled us through these most trying events and I am proud to be associated with all of them.

I once again would like to urge the people of our community to visit our website at www.rhinebeckvillage.org and to sign up and take advantage of our opt in feature that will allow us to keep them informed."
